

FABLES FROM ANTIQUITY TO MODERN TIMES

F A B U L A

NEW SERIES
SOCIETÀ INTERNAZIONALE
PER LO STUDIO DEL MEDIOEVO LATINO

No literary genre has been more adaptable and persistent than the Aesopic fable. In perpetual balance between writing and orality, the fable surfaces in unexpected forms across centuries and cultures. This is the only series devoted entirely to the genre in all of its linguistic and chronological variety.

The aim is not only to make under-valued or even unpublished texts more available and accessible – in the form of critical editions, translations, and interpretive essays in monographic or miscellaneous volumes – but also to encourage interdisciplinary dialogue and new methodological approaches to the subject.
